

Two Drown As Flash Flood Breaks Dams At Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, N. M. (AP)—A flash flood roared out of the mountains northwest of here Monday, taking at least two lives and washing out three dams in the area. The flood victims were the Rev. Emil LaPorte, 41, and his daughter, Laura, 10, drowned when their car was caught in a gully and swept downstream by the rushing water.

The body of the daughter was found a short distance from where her father's had been found earlier in the afternoon.

Rev. Mr. LaPorte was a minister at the Southwest Bible Fellowship in Las Vegas, N.M. He was driving near Sapello, a small community north of Las Vegas, when run-off water from 2.79 inches of rain swept his car from the road.

The bulk of the water from the mountain deluge swept down the Gallinas River which flows through Las Vegas. Three small dams were swept away and added more water to the flood. Las Vegas itself escaped flooding as river banks held through the city. Low areas to the north and south of the city were evacuated.

All law enforcement officers and National Guardsmen in the area were called out to warn residents along the river of the flood danger.

The speed of the flood was described by a farm family living along the Gallinas north of Las Vegas.

Mrs. Dorothy Tejada told officers her family had driven across the river about two minutes before the rise hit. It was flowing only a trickle at the time.

The family heard a roar after arriving home and saw the first surge of water coming down the river. The Tejada home, on high ground, escaped flooding.

The three broken dams were masonry and wooden structures built at the turn of the century by the Santa Fe Railway to form ice ponds. The wooden center sections were swept away.

The reservoirs were from 400 to 500 yards long, 75 yards wide and 12 to 14 feet deep.

Inventor Kills Banker Refusing To Cash Check

KENDALLVILLE, Ind. (AP)—An eccentric, self-styled inventor, shot and killed the cashier of a local bank Monday after the banker refused to cash a check.

Sheriff Myron Welker of Lagrange County said Richard Klink, 47, set down his rifle after shooting Maurice Kent, 43, and was seized outside the bank by Richard Targgart, publisher of the Kendallville Herald, and Fred Rittenhouse, an auto salesman.

Targgart and Rittenhouse held Klink until state police and the sheriff arrived.

Kent was taken to a Lagrange hospital, where he died from bullet wounds in his chest. He was also shot in the right arm and the right hip.

Prosecutor Richard Detar said a first degree murder charge would be filed against Klink. The bank is a branch of the Farmers State Bank of Lagrange.

Floyd Perkins, president of the parent bank, said Klink tried to cash a $500 check written to himself, signed by himself, and endorsed by himself.

Officials said Klink had no account at the bank.

Perkins said after Kent wouldn't cash the check Klink left and returned later with the rifle.

Welker said Klink, who described himself as an inventor, lived in a cottage on Atwood Lake, near Wolcottville.

Wolcottville is 35 miles north of Fort Wayne.

Walkout Disrupts ABC-TV Stations In Four Cities

NEW YORK (AP)—A work stoppage by American Broadcasting Co. television and radio technicians caused disruptions in most of their briefings in the networks programs in several cities late Monday.

Officials of the network and the National Assn. of Broadcast Employees and Technicians were still negotiating here.

Meanwhile, the technicians were still "writing grievances" and refusing to work in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles stations.

The number of technicians involved was not known.

However, network operations were reported back to approximately normal during evening programs.

The disruption rose from a dispute over ABC's premier Monday of a television program, "American Bandstand," previously seen only locally in Philadelphia.

NABET charged use of the Philadelphia show, telecast with technicians employed by a local station, constituted taking work away from NABET members under contract with ABC.

A union spokesman here said the technicians in ABC-owned stations in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco then sat down for a "grievance-writing session." The spokesman said the technicians had a "contractual right" to do this.

In Chicago station WBKB was off the air for an hour— from 2:05 to about 3 p. m.—resuming then with management personnel handling the work.

The employees involved handle controls, cameras, transmitters, turntables for sound effects, microphones and other such equipment for both television and radio programs.

CHICAGO HAS HIGH TB DEATH RATE

CHICAGO (AP)—A total of 439 tuberculosis deaths in Chicago last year gave the city a TB death rate nearly twice the national average, the Tuberculosis Institute of Chicago and Cook County reported Monday.

Chicago's total of 5,644 new TB cases in 1956 was 2½ times the national rate, the institute added.

SENATOR WALTER F. GEORGE

Former Sen. George Buried In Vienna, Ga.

VIENNA, Ga. (AP)—Flags across the nation and on ships at sea fluttered at half staff Monday while former Sen. Walter F. George was laid to rest in a sun-dappled cemetery.

Fellow citizens from offices high and low heard him eulogized as a just man with a heart full of sympathy and humility before God.

The red brick Gothic First Baptist Church of Vienna was full to overflowing during the simple funeral services conducted by the Rev. L. C. Cutts, whose father preached to George.

Cutts based his message on the Old Testament, Mic. 6:8 which says in part: "He hath showed thee, O man, what is good. And what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God?"

"That passage," said Rev. Cutts, "applies to Sen. George." The pastor said George was a man with "integrity of character, sympathy of heart and an appreciation of the spiritual measures of life."

All this characterized his work in Washington while he strove for peace in a troubled world as chairman of the powerful Foreign Relations Committee. He favored a strong bipartisan foreign policy and was admired alike by Republicans and members of his own Democratic party.

Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, was present as President Eisenhower's personal representative, along with 25 senators and two representatives who flew down from Washington.

Eisenhower himself directed that flags be flown at half staff on all government buildings and naval vessels in memory of the 79-year-old special ambassador to NATO who died in his sleep Sunday of a heart ailment.

Skelton Brings Son, Ill With Leukemia, Home

NEW YORK (AP)—Comedian Red Skelton brought his leukemia-stricken son home Monday from an abbreviated tour of Europe. With him also were his wife and daughter.

"Don't ever take a sick boy on a world pilgrimage," he told reporters soberly. "The kids had a lot of fun but both of them want to get back to their little friends. We plan a normal life for Richard. He can play with his friends and go swimming and other things."

Richard, 9, has been given no more than a year to live by doctors who are treating his blood condition, a form of cancer. Skelton explained: "He tires quickly. His illness is in a remission period. He's not getting any worse and not getting any better."

Skelton, his wife, Richard and his sister, Valentine, 10, were to have spent six weeks touring some of the European sights the ailing boy had read about.

They cut this short after only three weeks, however, and suddenly decided Sunday to fly back from Scotland. Skelton was upset by London newspaper criticism that included a suggestion he was making publicity capital out of the boy's affliction.

"I made me sick," Skelton said, "and I said, 'let's get out of here.'"

Skelton said it was from London reporters that Richard first learned he is doomed to die, and asked the meaning of the term "incurable." Skelton said he told Richard it meant he must take his medicine and follow doctors' orders or he would die.

San Diego is the southwesternmost city in the United States, just 15 miles north of the Mexican border.

Predicts Substantial Vote On Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Majority Leader Johnson (D-Tex.) accused Vice President Nixon Monday of leading "a concerted propaganda campaign against the Senate's jury trial amendment to the civil rights bill."

Johnson said final action on the bill would come Wednesday or Thursday and he predicted: "There will be a more substantial vote for passage than there was for the jury trial amendment which the vice president criticized."

The vote for the jury trial amendment last Friday was 51-42.

Johnson held an informal news conference to strike back at Nixon's statement, issued after adoption of the amendment, that "this was one of the saddest days in the history of the Senate because this was a vote against the right to vote."

"It is rare when the vice president starts lecturing a majority of the members of the Senate," Johnson told reporters. "He was here for very little of the discussion of the bill and he knows very little about what was in it."

"Any objective person, who is not playing politics, knows that this bill represents an advance in the field of civil rights."

Hints Veto

A high administration source said Sunday President Eisenhower would veto the bill if it reaches him in the form in which the Senate is expected to pass it.

Before the legislation could go to the White House, however, Senate and House versions would have to be adjusted. House GOP leader Martin of Massachusetts has predicted the bill will die in conference.

Provisions

The controversial amendment provides for jury trials in nearly all cases of criminal contempt arising from federal court injunction proceedings.

It was attached to a section of the bill authorizing the attorney general to seek federal court injunctions against any violations or threats of violations of voting rights. Under present law, when an individual violates the terms of an injunction and is charged with contempt of court, he would be tried by a federal judge without a jury.

The amendment provides for jury trials not only in voting rights cases but in labor disputes (Continued on Page 11)

Saloon Patron Kills Bystander

CALUMET CITY, Ill. (AP)—A saloon patron who resembled a bartender's closing time reminder Monday shot a bystander to death.

Killed by a bullet in his head was Kenneth Parish, 38, a taxicab operator with five children. Parish was lounging near a washroom in the Cadillac Club, a strip tease spot on Calumet City's notorious honky tonk strip. He was waiting to collect accumulated taxi fares from two women entertainers.

The gunman, who entered about 20 minutes before closing time, sat nursing his beer at the bar. Then, Felix Centracchio, owner-bartender, told the beer sipper to hurry it up.

The slow drinker was fast on the draw and fired as Centracchio ran into the washroom, the bullet killing Parish.

A moment later, the slayer ran from the place, jumped into a car nearby, and drove away. He lost his size 7½ Panama hat in his flight.

There were half a dozen customers and four employees in the place. All said they did not know the killer.

Navy To Deactivate 60 Ships, New Warships To Be Added

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Navy Monday announced an economy cut of 60 ships from the active fleet. But, it said, some of the loss in fighting strength will be made up by new warships now nearing completion.

Largest of the warships to be mothballed is the battleship Iowa. Twenty-six other combat vessels are included in the number scheduled for inactivation, all by December.

The Navy action in withdrawing these vessels from the Atlantic and Pacific fleets followed earlier orders from the Defense Department for the Navy to reduce its manpower by 15,000 and to share with the other services a reduction in maintenance and operating spending of more than half a billion dollars.

The Navy is now operating about 975 vessels of all categories and had planned to increase the size of the active fleet to 983 by June 1958.

During the same period that the older ships are being laid up, the Navy has scheduled the addition of 23 new vessels and 10 ships that are under construction to operate modern weapons and to meet modern tests.

The Navy first estimated that the net strength of the active fleet, after completion of the 60 deactivations and the addition of the new ships, would be about 950. Some naval officers said, however, that the fleet strength by next June may drop as low as 930 vessels of all types.

The new mothballing program excludes aircraft carriers. The Navy is standing by its program of operating at least 15 attack carriers and a smaller number of carriers, generally older, that have been adapted to handle aircraft and equipment specially designed for antisubmarine warfare.

Except for the battleship Iowa, which was specifically named for transfer to the mothball fleet, the Navy did not identify the ships that will be laid up.

House Passes Bill To Cut Cabaret Tax In Half

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Monday passed a bill to cut the cabaret tax in half, from 20 to 10 per cent.

The bill was sent to the Senate by voice vote, with only a few dissenters, although Reps. Rees (R-Kan.) and Gross (R-Iowa) argued that if taxes were to be cut, the cutting should start somewhere other than in night clubs.

The House Ways and Means Committee estimated the revenue loss from the reduction at 21 million dollars a year. It said some of this would be offset by increases in income tax collections.

The committee said the 20 per cent tax was discriminatory because most other excise rates are only 10 per cent. The 20 per cent rate, it said, "has proved to be a substantial deterrent to the employment of musicians and other entertainers."

The reductions, if approved by the Senate and the President, will become effective at 10 a. m. on the first day of the month beginning more than 10 days after the President signs the bill.

McElroy, Slated For U.S. Job, Meets With Sec. Wilson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Neil H. McElroy, Ohio manufacturer who is reported to be under consideration for a high government post, spent two hours at the Pentagon Monday with Secretary of Defense Wilson. There have been reports McElroy might succeed Wilson.

McElroy, who is president of Proctor & Gamble Co., said in Cincinnati last week "something is under consideration" for him in Washington and that he was coming to the capital Monday for conferences.

Aides of the defense secretary, who is known to be taking an active part in finding a successor when he steps out, said that McElroy had lunch with Wilson and remained to confer privately for about two hours. The secretary's office declined to explain the purpose of the conference.

At the White House presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said he knew nothing about McElroy's meeting with Wilson except what he saw on news tickers.

Although McElroy is reported to be high on the list of those under consideration to succeed Wilson, some administration officials have said that the job in mind for the Cincinnati industrialist is not necessarily the defense secretaryship.

Is Bulganin On Way Out In Soviet Power Struggle?

BERLIN (AP)—A Soviet Embassy explanation failed Monday to check a growing crop of rumors that Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin is about to be pushed aside in a continuing Kremlin power struggle.

The embassy spokesman in Communist-ruled East Berlin indicated Bulganin is being left out of a Soviet delegation to East Germany this week because the visit is concerned principally with economic questions. The spokesman denied the Premier was off the Bulganin-Khrushchev visitors' team because of ill health.

A Moscow announcement disclosed over the weekend the composition of the Soviet delegation which is flying here Wednesday. Bulganin, constant traveling companion of Soviet Communist boss Nikita S. Khrushchev, was not included. The next ranking member of the delegation is Anastas I. Mikoyan, the Kremlin's top economic expert.

The embassy spokesman was asked if Mikoyan was substituted for Bulganin for political reasons. "The main things to be discussed are economic questions, and therefore Minister Mikoyan has been included in the delegation," he said.

In Moscow, Bulganin went about his duties as usual. He met with a Tokyo group calling itself the "Japanese Council for Prohibition of Atomic and Hydrogen Weapons" and talked with its six members for more than two hours about the Soviet government position on nuclear weapons tests.

There has been no suggestion as yet that Bulganin has been pushed out of the Kremlin hierarchy. But these developments did little to clear up the growing mystery of his present status.

Most Western experts in this divided city hold to the view that Khrushchev dropped the "B" of the famed "B and K" traveling team because the Communist boss is pushing the Premier downward, if not completely out.

Observers in Czechoslovakia and Finland, recent scenes of Bulganin-Khrushchev jousts, have described the 62-year-old Premier as looking worn and tired, raising a suggestion that the trips have had a telling effect on his health. But the Soviet spokesman in Berlin snapped a quick "no" when asked if Bulganin was out of the delegation for health reasons.

Mikoyan, 61, perennial survivor of many a Kremlin shakeup, is a deputy prime minister, and there is speculation now that he might be moved up to the premiership. (Continued on Page Eleven)

FHA Lowers Down Payment For Agency Insured Homes

WASHINGTON (AP)—In twin moves to spur home buying among lower and middle income families, the government Monday cut almost in half the minimum down payment for FHA-insured homes and boosted the interest rate on FHA loans from 5 to 5½ per cent.

And new strict controls were clamped on the amount of discount — or premium — which may be charged borrowers on mortgage loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration or the Veterans Administration.

At the same time, the Federal National Mortgage Assn. announced a new schedule of prices at which it will buy FHA and VA mortgages.

Albert M. Cole, Housing and Home Finance Administrator, said the new housing regulations are aimed at channeling "a larger share of available mortgage investment funds into the financing of lower priced homes without increasing inflationary pressures in our economy."

The higher interest rate, new discount regulations and FNMA schedule go into effect on all loan applications received after today. The lower down payment rate is in effect tomorrow.

The new FHA interest rate is expected to result in a related increase in the open market rate on conventional home mortgage loans, now around 5½ per cent. Some lending institutions already are reported anticipating a 6 per cent rate.

Reductions in down payments were authorized by Congress in legislation President Eisenhower signed on July 12, but it was left to FHA whether to put them into partial or full effect. The government decided to go all the way. Congress also directed the FHA and VA to impose "reasonable" discount regulations.

However, Rep. Rains (D-Ala.), chairman of the Housing subcommittee of the House, said the FHA interest rate has now been raised. (Continued on Page Eleven)

Hospital Inmate On Leave Kills Baby In His Care

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP)—Police said a 21-year-old inmate, on leave from Elgin State Hospital, Monday killed his four-month-old grand nephew, left in his care.

Harvey Hamberlin, a Negro, and long-time inmate patient at the mental hospital, told police he stabbed the baby, Armond Hamberlin, at the home of his brother, Horace Hamberlin, where he had been visiting since Sunday.

After telling Winnebago County Sheriff Leonard Friberg, "I've just killed a baby," Hamberlin led police to the scene of the killing. Near the child's body was a shoeshorn and a knife, Sheriff Friberg said.

Jessie B. Hamberlin, 20, the mother of the child, was working in a Rockford laundry at the time of the killing, police said.

SHOULD DO WELL

KESHENA, Wis. (AP)—Ernie Goodwill is a member of the Recreation Committee of the Menominee Indian Advisory Council.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Representatives of most of the world's Protestant, orthodox and Anglican churches Monday urged governments to halt nuclear bomb tests as a trial bid for peace.

Nations should take the step alone if necessary, the Christian leaders declared, to try to break up the atomic arms race.

In a major, long-deliberated action, the World Council of Churches said in a statement the suspension of tests by any government conducting them could pave the way for international agreements banning the bomb.

Such mass-destruction weapons "inevitably involve spiritual degradation for any nation that uses them," and their continued production raises parallel moral issues, the statement said.

It added that treaties prohibiting such weapons and providing for international safeguards were the objective, but such a program "must proceed by stages."

"We urge that as a first step governments conducting tests should forego them, at least for a trial period, either together or individually, in the hope that the others will do the same, a new confidence be born, and foundations laid for reliable agreements," the churches said.

Council officers were authorized to present the recommendation to the governments concerned. This would include Great Britain, the United States and Great Britain, the only three carrying on atomic tests.

The statement was adopted by the Council's policy-making Central Committee without a negative vote. Several, however, abstained. Numerous delegates rose to praise the action.

The Most Rev. Geoffrey Francis Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury and primate of England, called the document an "extremely powerful and important statement of Christianity."

Metropolitan Juhanon of the Mar Thoma Syrian Church in India, said a cessation of bomb testing by any major power would show Easterners that that country stands for "righteousness and justice" and not "hydrogen warfare."

The Council's action came in the midst of five-power disarmament talks in London.

NAME DARBY TO YOUTH COMMISSION

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Gov. Stratton Monday announced the appointment of Golden B. Darby of Chicago as a member of the Illinois Youth Commission.

Darby, 58, has been supervisor of the Institute of Juvenile Research in the State Welfare Department for the past 17 years. His new job pays $10,000 a year.

Tollway Lacks $40 Million

CHICAGO (AP)—The Illinois Toll Road Commission reported Monday that it is shy 40 million dollars of enough money to complete the 18½-mile Illinois toll road system.

Executive Director Charles L. Dearing blamed rising costs for the under-estimate of the cost of the system for which the commission already has issued 415 million dollars in bonds.

Dearing said a supplemental bond issue for 40 million dollars will have to be sold to finance cause of the increased costs. Dearing said, an increase in toll rates will have to be considered.

Dearing said that generally there was a big increase in prices of road materials over estimates on which the total cost of the tollway was estimated. He cited these increases in bids over 1955 estimates: crushed stone base, 165 per cent; structural steel, 77 per cent; granular subbase, 106 per cent; 10 inch pavement, 36 per cent; and granular subbase, 106 per cent.

The commission said the construction has been delayed by rains and difficulties in obtaining rights of way, but the target date for completion of the entire system remains Jan. 1, 1959.

CHURCHES CALL ON NATIONS TO HALT NUCLEAR BOMB TESTS

STAMPEDE AT BLUE SPRINGS

BY GENE OLSON

THE STORY: Pike Ambrose has followed Birch Crane to a cave in which Pete Dorsey is held by his captors. Pike got the drop on Birch and Carl Rambeau, but Pete is tied up in the cave and Pike doesn't know how to get the prisoner out.

XVIII

THEN somebody came out of the cave, rolling over and over down the slope. He hit the trail and stopped rolling. He twisted his neck to get a look at me. It was Dorsey, all right.

Dorsey said, his voice thin and dry, "That you, Blanchard?"

"No, Pete," I said. "But I'll take you to him."

"Thank God," Dorsey said, his voice trailing to a whisper. "I struck me strange, there in the dark on the trail, that Dorsey would be glad to go back to Blanchard and a long time in prison. I got my bone-handled knife off the saddle and cut Dorsey loose at the wrists and ankles. He stood up and stretched and rubbed his wrists and moaned."

Rambeau said, "Look. What you gonna do with us? Me and Birch?"

All I could think of was tie them and leave them there. I said, "Pete, get that rope I cut off you and rawhide off my saddle. Tie this pair."

"Look," Rambeau said, excited. "You leave us here and we're good as dead. You let us go and we'll head out south to the breaks. Maybe catch that Pinto and the pack horse. Then, by golly, we'll slope out of the country."

I knew he was right. Leaving them there for the Clements to find was like shooting them with the Springfield in my hand. Amounted to the same. But if they didn't head out, instead turned back to town...

BIRCH said, "We got to pull out, kid. You can see that. You got what you want. Don't help none to kill us."

"Head out," I said.

"Much obliged," Birch said.

They moved off down the trail. Rambeau leading at a trot, and soon they were lost in the dark. I stood listening until their footsteps faded, then I turned to Dorsey.

"Let's move," I said.

I couldn't see much of Dorsey in the dark and I didn't especially care to. I knew it was Dorsey and that's all I cared. I moved out north up the trail, leading Pilot. Dorsey walked alongside, still breathing like he couldn't get enough air. Every now and then he'd laugh a little, deep in his throat, and I knew it was just the good feeling bubbling out. I figured we could walk as fast up the side of the ravine as we could ride double and I wanted to save Pilot.

Moving through the dark ravine, it came to me what I'd done. I had Pete Dorsey, alive and well, and I was taking him back to Blue Springs and I was going to walk right up to Blanchard and say, "Harney, here's that little old fellow you been looking for." And when Blanchard got his breath and he asked how I managed it, I'd say, "Just went out and took him away from a couple of bad hombres and brought him back. About all there was to it." It sure would be something to see Blanchard's face when I said that.

THEN I wondered if I'd been a little careless with Pete, if he might cut and he got the chance. I decided he wouldn't. It seemed to me that what he wanted more than anything else was to have Blanchard right close by him again, at least until he got out of Clement country.

We came out of the ravine high over Buffalo Basin, which stretched away to the river and the north ridge.

I got up on Pilot and helped Dorsey up behind. We headed down the slope, Dorsey hanging on around my waist until he liked to choke the breath out of me. I angled Pilot down the slope and held him back until we got near the bottom. Then he broke into a hard run and I let him go. Dorsey laughed loud. It was the happiest sound I ever heard but I hated the way it seemed to reach out into the night.

I PULLED Pilot down and he was soon willing to walk. I was glad that neither of us was a heavy man. I let my eyes range the basin and I told Dorsey to keep a lookout, too. After that, I didn't hear him chuckle any more and his breath shortened up. He said, "You expect trouble?"

"No. Just don't hanker to run into anybody."

Dorsey didn't relax much. I wished I'd kept my mouth shut. I should have known it wouldn't take much to draw him up after what he'd been through. It seemed like three nights before we got to the river. But there it was finally, the wide band of milk sliding through the night. Pilot braced against the bank, stepped through the shallow water and up the north bank. I held him up and looked up on the north ridge.

Straight ahead, up at the top, a horse and rider, black against the sky. Tightness came over me fast and a dead taste came up in my mouth. I watched the rider sitting still up there and tried to decide what to do. Then Dorsey saw him, too, and moaned.

I looked on our back trail. Already another rider had dropped into the basin and was heading toward us. He'd been up on the south ridge. I wheeled Pilot to the east and tried to see along the river into The Narrows. I nudged Pilot to a run, heading east, hoping nobody was in The Narrows, knowing I'd have to pass the Clements' or swing wide. There was nothing else I could see to do.

stretched away to the river and the north ridge.

I got up on Pilot and helped Dorsey up behind. We headed down the slope, Dorsey hanging on around my waist until he liked to choke the breath out of me. I angled Pilot down the slope and held him back until we got near the bottom. Then he broke into a hard run and I let him go. Dorsey laughed loud. It was the happiest sound I ever heard but I hated the way it seemed to reach out into the night.

I PULLED Pilot down and he was soon willing to walk. I was glad that neither of us was a heavy man. I let my eyes range the basin and I told Dorsey to keep a lookout, too. After that, I didn't hear him chuckle any more and his breath shortened up. He said, "You expect trouble?"

"No. Just don't hanker to run into anybody."

Dorsey didn't relax much. I wished I'd kept my mouth shut. I should have known it wouldn't take much to draw him up after what he'd been through. It seemed like three nights before we got to the river. But there it was finally, the wide band of milk sliding through the night. Pilot braced against the bank, stepped through the shallow water and up the north bank. I held him up and looked up on the north ridge.

Straight ahead, up at the top, a horse and rider, black against the sky. Tightness came over me fast and a dead taste came up in my mouth. I watched the rider sitting still up there and tried to decide what to do. Then Dorsey saw him, too, and moaned.

I looked on our back trail. Already another rider had dropped into the basin and was heading toward us. He'd been up on the south ridge. I wheeled Pilot to the east and tried to see along the river into The Narrows. I nudged Pilot to a run, heading east, hoping nobody was in The Narrows, knowing I'd have to pass the Clements' or swing wide. There was nothing else I could see to do.

Casualties In Wreck Of Merry-Go-Round

CARROLLTON—Broken necks and legs were the fate of dappled greys and shiny black chargers in a wreck north of this city early Sunday morning, but luckily all horses were of the merry-go-round breed.

The driver of a trailer tractor truck, Francis Jandro, 36, of Covington, Ky., fared better than the horses, although he suffered a fractured pelvis.

The wreck of the merry-go-round occurred at 6 a.m. Sunday on U. S. Route 67, in front of the L. A. Mehrhoff farm.

The sad state of affairs came about when Jandro was driving a piece of equipment from Roodhouse, after a street carnival there.

The driver stated, after being taken by Simpson ambulance to the Boyd Memorial hospital here, his truck cab seemed to weave and he lost control. The heavily weighted trailer and cab overturned and the driver was momentarily pinned between the cab and trailer before painfully edging his way free.

The merry-go-round is the property of the BWH, Inc. shows that just finished an engagement at Roodhouse.

Hundreds of motorists and curiosity seekers during the day Sunday viewed the sadly dilapidated carnival ride with his entire equestrian entourage out of order.

Huge Wolf Attacks Hog Near Murrayville

A female wolf estimated to weigh 90 pounds that attacks hogs has been reported in the area 6 1/2 miles southeast of Murrayville.

Julius Dennis of that community reported Monday to the Journal Courier office that his 12 year old son, Larry Lee, and four farm dogs ran the large wolf from the farm.

The wolf stalked a hog of about its same weight mid-afternoon Sunday when Mr. and Mrs. Dennis were gone from the property.

Larry Lee, student at the Murrayville grade school, had just returned on his bike from visiting neighbors. He heard the hog squeal loudly from a distance of 250 feet from the house. At the same time the farm's four dogs, one shepherd and three hounds, came up from a lower field all headed in the direction of the stricken animal.

The hounds chased the large wolf from the hog and it took out into brush. Larry Lee dragged the dying hog up to the farm house just as his parents arrived home. Mr. Dennis had to kill the hog that had been badly slashed by the mauling wolf.

Several smaller hogs, around 60 or less pounds, have disappeared from the Dennis farm during the past years. Mr. Dennis had laid their disappearance to theft or wandering, but now the situation takes on a different light.

At five o'clock Monday morning the wolf again visited the Dennis farm, in time for Mr. Dennis to see first hand the invading long-haired gray and white animal, believed to have young in the nearby vicinity.

Mr. Dennis reported the incident to the newspaper in hope other farmers in the area will be on the lookout for the dangerous animal.

All four pupils were chosen from a group of about 300 for their dancing ability, to remain in the try outs until the finals when the children were then matched for heights. John Hefner and Debbie Pranger were chosen as alternates for the Wizard of Oz performance which occurs later in the month.

Glasgow Couple Mark Anniversary

GLASGOW—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Varvel, former residents of Kirkwood, Mo., who have been residents of Glasgow since May of 1937, quietly observed their 27th wedding anniversary on Wednesday, July 31.

Mr. Varvel is sales manager of The Varvel Awning Company in Kirkwood, Mo. and before moving to Glasgow retained his office there, and commutes as often as necessary.

No celebration was planned for the occasion, however Mr. and Mrs. Varvel were St. Louis visitors on Wednesday returning home in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Varvel have visited for many years in Glasgow with friends and relatives as her father, George Ward of St. Louis when retired several years ago moved to Glasgow and has since been a resident of our town.

Mike Sandusky of Maryland is one of those rare college athletes who doesn't plan to limit himself to one professional sport. The 225 pound tank shaped tackle hopes to get in some wrestling on the west coast along with playing football for the San Francisco 49ers. Mike won the Atlantic coast title and placed fourth in the national tourney. Also add the conference academic team to his honors.

Trees and shrubs planted this spring will need to be watered throughout the summer. Be sure to soak the soil at least one foot deep.

BUG-EYED—Eight-year-old Michael Marecek, of Denver, Colo., may be a butterfly hunter with a cockeyed technique, but his unorthodox methods are invariably crowned with success. Subtly luring the unwary insect onto his nose, Mike stares the flighty creature into submission and then with a quick swish of his handy net another butterfly winds up in his collection.

Dog Is Brown County Hero

Blaze, a collie, voted winner of the Ken-L-Ration gold medal as 1957's most heroic dog. Blaze saved his three-year-old mistress, Dawn Hecox of Timewell, Brown county, Ill., from enraged sow that had knocked out four of her teeth and bitten her so badly she was hospitalized for three weeks. Blaze will receive $1,000 U.S. bond, a gold leash and collar and other gifts at banquet in Chicago's Palmer House Aug. 14.

CHICAGO — Blaze, a beautiful, white-faced collie who battled an enraged sow to save the life of a little 2 1/2-year-old girl on a farm in Brown county, Illinois, has been named winner of the fourth annual Ken-L-Ration Dog Hero of Heroes award as the most heroic dog in the nation for 1957.

Blaze and his owners, Mr. and Mrs. Duane Hecox of RR No. 1, Timewell, Ill., along with their daughter, Laurel (Dawn), whose life the dog saved, will be brought to Chicago for a three-day, all-expenses-paid stay at a leading hotel, and all will be guests of honor at the annual award banquet in the Crystal Room of Chicago's Palmer House, Wednesday, Aug. 14.

Blaze will be presented a gold medal, a gold-plated collar and leash, and a year's supply of dog food. His owners will be awarded a $1,000 U.S. bond. Four other dogs, runners-up in the voting were named to receive prizes for second, third, fourth and fifth places. These awards will be made in their own localities.

The performance that won the top hero award for Blaze took place last September on the Hecox farm. While Mrs. Hecox was in the basement and her husband was doing the chores, little 2 1/2-year-old Dawn wandered outside and into the barnyard. Deciding to get a closer look at some new baby pigs, Dawn climbed into an enclosure. Almost immediately, the mother sow attacked the little girl, knocking her to the ground, and then mauling and biting her.

At this point, Blaze, a constant companion to the three Hecox children, sprang into action. He hurled the fence and attacked the sow, driving it away from the child and enabling her to crawl back through the fence.

Blaze's barking and the commotion brought Mr. and Mrs. Hecox running to the scene, where they found their daughter lying stunned on the ground, badly bruised and bleeding from numerous bites and scratches. Blaze was still in the enclosure holding the enraged sow at bay.

Dawn was rushed to a hospital at Quincy, Ill., where it was found that four of her teeth had been knocked out, she had suffered numerous bites, cuts and bruises, and was in a state of shock. She was on the serious list at the hospital for two days and under a physician's care for almost three weeks. Her parents agreed with physicians that had it not been for Blaze, the sow would no doubt have killed their daughter.

Mrs. Charles Bealmear, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harris of Tulsa, La., came the greatest distance.

An election of officers resulted in the following being named: president, Mrs. Merle Helliwell, Winchester vice president, Ralph Megginson, Auburn secretary, Mrs. William Fanning treasurer, P. D. Megginson, Woodson. Program chairman, Miss Shelia Bourn, introduced the following program: song, America; The Lord's Prayer, group; pledge to flag, Shelia Bourn, leading; poems, Architects of Faith, Irene Helliwell; the Wonderful Age of Four, Mary Etta Suttles; Joe's Room by Shelia Bourn, and Home, Mrs. Lucille Megginson.

The meeting closed with God Be With You, Mrs. Bealmear. The registration was as follows: P. D. Megginson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Harris, Tulsa, La. Norma Jean Harris, Joan Harris, Mrs. Keith Suttles, Judy, Darrell and Joyce.

Mrs. Lucille Megginson, Mr. and Mrs. William Fanning, Kay Megginson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thies and Danny, Shelia Jean Bourn, Mr. and Mrs. George Thies.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bealmear, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Megginson, Teddy and Mary, Auburn; Mr. and Mrs. Clyde W. Jones and son, Clyde E. Jones, Woodson. Mr. and Mrs. Merle Helliwell, Winchester; Judith Helliwell, Springfield; James Megginson, Myrtle Butler.

SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

CHICAGO — (NEA) — Another world champion — George S. May version — will sink his final putt at Tam O'Shanter's famous 18th on Aug. 11 to close out 72 holes and the richest golf tournament ever played.

The so-called World Championship has become known as the tournament in which the winner leaves his game. Of the last four champions, for example, only Julius Boros, who bounced down in front in 1955, has shown any semblance of being able to play well again, and it took the Moose a year to get back on the right track.

Ted Kroll, the defending titleholder, was nowhere in this year's Masters and United States Open. A year ago, Kroll was in contention right down to the wire in the Open and a finalist in the PGA.

Little Bob Toski hasn't done a thing since he bagged the World in 1954. Lew Worsham seemed to lose the urge after holding that amazing wedge shot to take the big prize the previous summer.

But there are no complaints from the poor lost souls and all the more important names are back for more. The World winner banks $50,000, you see, and is guaranteed 50 exhibitions in this and other countries at $1,000 a raffle. Kroll played 63 of them last year.

This is where Promoter May gets out as a business engineer, but the shotmakers obviously get fat and off their game traveling with nothing to worry about away from the tournament trail.

A spokesman for May claims that the old pitch man has never suffered a deficit of less than $150,000 on his combined All-American and World Championships, which have a two-weeks run, and these are the 17th editions. It is also said that May has given away $1,355,480 in prizes during that stretch.

Outside of the actual scoring, figures and everything else are handled rather loosely at Tam O'Shanter, 25 miles out of Chicago at Niles. May claimed to have had an attendance of 65,000 on one day, for instance. With that many spectators, there would have been no room for the combatants, but it's May's way of further selling his spectacular.

In the mid-60's, May sits on a special front porch overlooking the first tee, popping pills into his mouth and watching the golfers tee off. Later in the day, he walks to the 18th green, where he once bet Byron Nelson $1,000 to $1 that he wouldn't hole a putt.

The flamboyant May changes his clothes every hour, right down to shoelaces that light up. He put numbers on the backs of golfers, tricked up the game with masked marvels and whatnot. There were slot machines throughout the clubhouse until he was reminded that this was against the law. Bars extend to the washrooms.

Regardless of what the United States Golf Association brass and others may think of him, George S. May did a lot for golf. By turning it into a carnival, he brought the game to the attention of people who otherwise would not have been attracted.

He showed the USGA and PGA how to sell their business, put the playing professionals in the more important money.

Name Charles Bellatti
Supervisor Of Athletic Publicity At U. Of I.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Aug. 4 — Charles M. Bellatti, 31, has been named supervisor of athletic publicity at University of Illinois.

Douglas R. Mills, director of athletics, announced today.

Bellatti, who has been acting in this capacity for ten months, succeeds Charles E. "Chuck" Flynn, who resigned to become director of public information for the University.

A native of Jacksonville, Bellatti received a bachelor of science degree in journalism in 1953, was named "outstanding male graduate" of the School of Journalism and received the Illinois Press Association award for "outstanding work in the field of community journalism."

Bellatti is the youngest son of Attorney and Mrs. Walter Bellatti, 1146 West College avenue.

His professional background includes three years as sports editor of the Jacksonville, Ill., Journal-Courier, as a sports announcer for Radio Station WLDS, Jacksonville, and a year as a sports writer for the Champaign-Urbana Courier.

His college career was twice interrupted by periods of service with the U. S. Army Counter Intelligence Corps in Washington, D.C., in 1948-49 and 1950-51.

Director Mills said of Bellatti's appointment, "he has handled the affairs of this office in a very commendable fashion during an interim period. I feel that he is well qualified to carry on the fine traditions which the University of Illinois has built in the field of athletic publicity and public relations."

Jim Amstutz, 271 pound center from Indiana, likes to recall the time when as a 250 pound quarter back at Central Catholic High School in Toledo he played against Ohio State's Jim Parker, then a student at Scott High in the same city.

De Vincenzo Captures
Tam's All-American,
Patty Berg First Also

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
CHICAGO, (U.S.) — Roberto de Vincenzo of Buenos Aires Monday played the last round in a close-to-the-vest 70 for a 72-hole total of 273 to win the $25,000 All-American golf crown by four strokes.

The victory, Roberto's second in five tournament starts this year, was worth $3,500. It set up the 220-pound pro who now registers from Mexico City, among the favorites in the $101,200 "World" championship starting at Tam O'Shanter Thursday.

The 34-year-old De Vincenzo, who had hailed away more than $13,000 in his five appearances at Tam and finished third twice, had a cool 36-34 final round. He hooked his 70 to previous trips of 69-64-70 for the 15-under-par 273. It was the second lowest 72-hole tally since the meet was inaugurated, matching the 273 of Ted Kroll's "World" card last year and Ben Hogan's "World" effort of 1951.

The record, however, was 269 by Byron Nelson in the 1954 All-American.

De Vincenzo's triumph was slightly overshadowed by the closing round of 65 by Gene Littler, who took second money of $2,300. This 9-under-par figure matched the competitive record of Lloyd Mangrum set in 1948 and if broken would have been worth $10,000.

Nordling an eagle 2 on the last hole to shatter the record, Littler pulled out a wedge from about 120 yards away. His ball hit in front on the pin and skidded to a stop 24 feet away. He dropped the putt for a birdie and a round of 33-30-63.

Sam Snead rolled into third place with a final 36-35 — 71 for 278 and $1,800. Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass., among the non-exempt pros who had to qualify for the tourney, finished fourth with 35-36-71 for 279, worth $1,500.

Grouped next at 281 were Art Wall Jr., with a final 70, Don Finsterwald 71, Fred Hawkins 69 and Bob Rosburg 69.

Then came Jimmy Demaret with 282, Ed Oliver and Jack Flec. with 283, Stan Leonard and little-known Tom Talkington of Ypsilanti, Mich., with 284 and Arnold Palmer and Cary Middlecoff, 285.

Veteran Patty Berg won her fifth All-American women's pro title with a final 73 for a 2-under-par 302. She beat out Jackie Pung by two strokes for the $1,500 top prize.

Crooner Don Cherry had a 75 for 295 to take a one stroke victory over Howard Everitt, Northfield, N. J., salesman, for the men's amateur championship. Everitt finished with 76.

The women's amateur crown went to 18-year old Clifford Ann Creed of Opelousas, La., her closing 79 gave her a 280-299 total and a 12-stroke margin over Lois Drafke of Chicago and Sandra Clifford, Mexico City.

Auto Dealer
Two-Time Loser
To Car Thieves

LASALLE, Ill. (U.S.) — An auto dealer, out for a drive with his wife early Monday, spotted two men driving one of his used car bargains and towing a second automobile.

The dealer, Sam Chennillare of Streator, trailed the culprits, and was robbed for his trouble. Later, the two cars were found abandoned. Near them was strewn a collection of articles identified as loot from the burglary of a summer cottage near Streator.

A search of nearby woods and cornfields was begun for the lawbreakers.

Mrs. Frances Lambert, sheriff of LaSalle County, said police records showed the towed car was registered to Neil Botta of Peoria. She said Botta and his brother, Wilford, resembled the description of the car thieves given by Chennillare.

The auto dealer's adventure began when he recognized dealer's license plates issued to him on the tow car at the intersection of U. S. Rt. 51 and State Rt. 18, 12 miles west of Streator.

Chennillare said he followed the cars and stopped the drivers on a nearby gravel road.

"When I saw the two tough-looking men I told them I had mistaken them for someone else," he said.

A few miles down the road the men stopped again and came back to Chennillare's car with a sawed-off shotgun. The men took a few dollars from Mrs. Chennillare, slashed the tires on the car and fled with the two autos.

A farmer called the LaSalle County sheriff, LaSalle and Marshall County police, with a state police airplane, are searching for the men.

Packers Continue
Drills; Skibinski's
Injury Serious

STEVENS POINT, Wis. (U.S.) — The Green Bay Packers continued contact drills Monday and also learned that veteran guard Joe Skibinski, who broke a leg in Sunday's scrimmage, was injured more seriously than thought originally.

X-rays showed that Skibinski's right leg was broken in three places, at the ankle, just above the heel and in the back of the leg above the ankle. He will be lost to the club at least two months.

Skibinski, a veteran of four National Football League seasons, will remain here about a week and then may return to his home in Chicago. His leg was encased in a knee-high cast.

He was injured while blocking on a trap play and was run over by the defense.

PITTSBURGH (U.S.) — Bobby Bragan, who lost his job as field manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday, signed a contract Monday for a similar post with the Almendares club in the Cuban Winter League.

Bragan met with Julio Arens Jr., general manager of the Cuban club, and discussed the contract terms before signing. The pact reportedly calls for Bragan to receive $10,000.

The former Pirate manager is scheduled to join Almendares in October.

THREE CHICAGO

FEDERAL INSURANCE

CHICAGO (U.S.) — Three Chicago savings associations headed by C. Oran Mensik have been refused federal insurance. It was announced Monday.

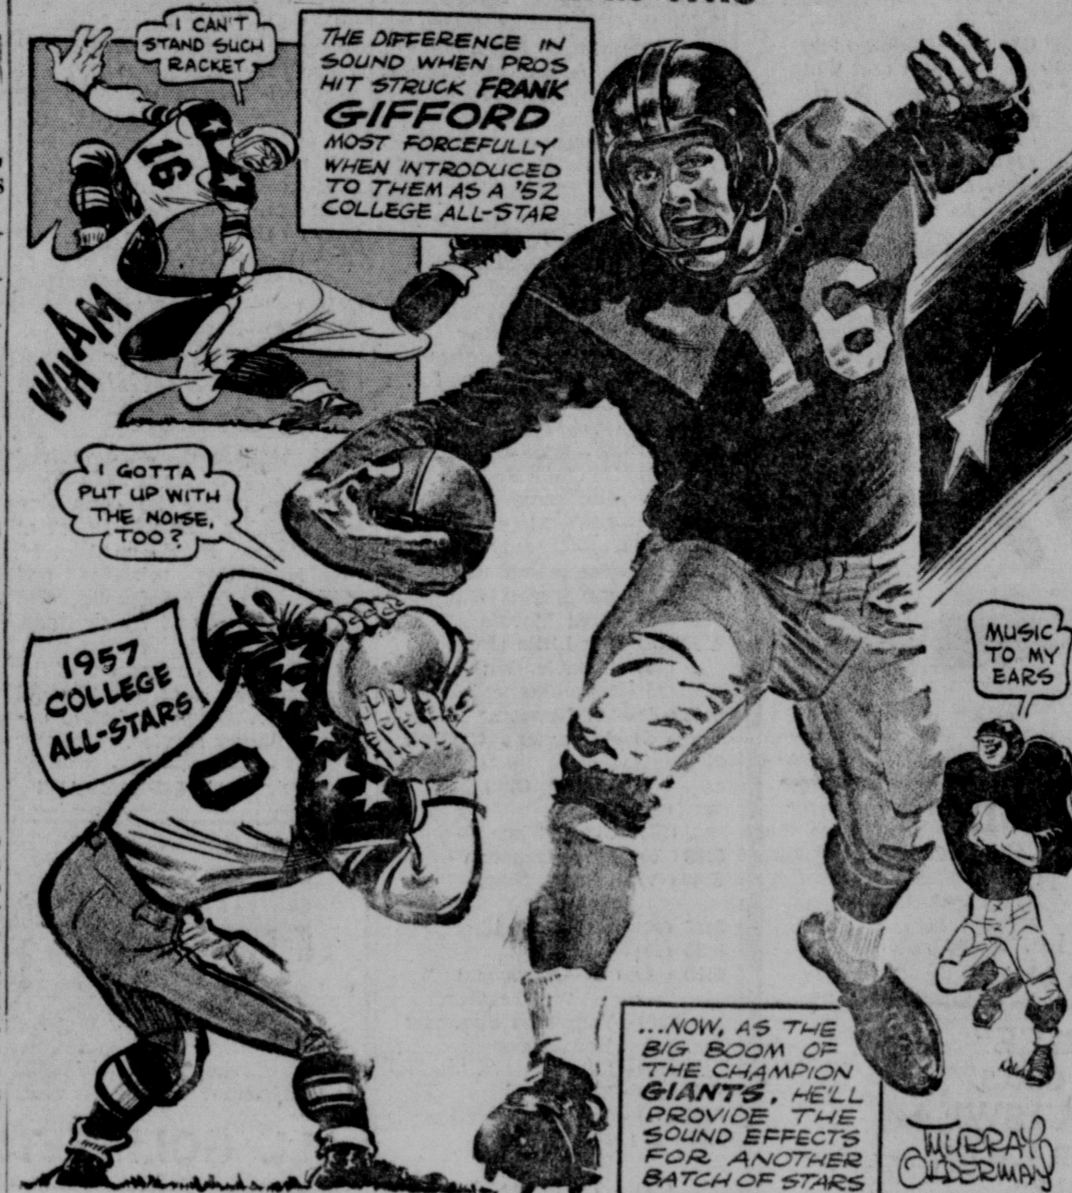

Mark Wasgoner, executive assistant to State Auditor Elbert S. Smith, said the Federal Home Loan Bank Board took the action in Washington in a ruling that "the financial policy and management are unsafe."

The institutions are City Savings Assn., First Guarantee Savings Assn. and Chicago Guarantee Savings Assn. State Auditor Smith seized control of them April 25 after runs by shareholders.

Wasgoner said the board, in a simultaneous decision, also rejected applications by the two guarantee firms for membership in the Federal Home Loan Bank City Savings already is a member.

The three firms have 48 million dollars in assets and 35,000 shareholders.

Garcia Beats Yankees

2 Years For Tribe, 7-2

NEW YORK (U.S.) — Mike Garcia beat the New York Yankees for the first time in over two years Monday as Cleveland broke the league-leaders' eight-game winning streak 7-2. The defeat cut the Yankees' margin over idle Chicago to six games.

Don Larsen, who never has downed the Indians in his major league career, was the victim of the Tribe's eight-hit attack which included a three-run homer by Gene Woodling in the ninth.

Not since Aug. 3, 1955 had Garcia won over the Yanks. He allowed nine hits, pitching out of trouble in the seventh when he struck out Mickey Mantle and retired Yogi Berra. The Yanks had loaded the bases with only one out.

Again in the ninth, he put down a threat after the Yanks put two on with nobody out. Berra filed out to end the game with the bases full.

Woodling put the game beyond reach in the ninth. With the Indians holding a 4-2 lead, Larry Raines and Bobby Avila singled. Woodling followed with his home run into the upper field stands.

Rademacher flew here from Columbus, Ga., where he had been training.

He said again he thinks his chances are good against Patterson, the world champion.

The fight, 2½ weeks away, has been blasted by Floyd Stevens, president of the National Boxing Assn., and several others as a mismatch. Rademacher has never had a professional fight.

Highlight in the career of John Gordy, Tennessee tackle, is the occasion when he caught a fumble in the air and ran it over for the only touchdown he ever scored.

Boudreau's Fate
As A's Manager
Swings In Balance

KANSAS CITY (U.S.) — Whether Lou Boudreau will be fired as manager of the parachuting Kansas City Athletics is to be decided this week, the Kansas City Star said Monday.

The club, riding a seven-game losing streak into the American League cellar, moved into Chicago for a three-game stint starting Tuesday and finishes its road trip with three more at Cleveland ending Sunday.

"Before the trip is over, a decision either for or against Manager Lou Boudreau will be made," wrote the Star's sports editor, Ernie Mehl.

Mehl, who was instrumental in bringing the club here from Philadelphia in 1954 and is close to President Arnold Johnson, quoted the club owner as saying: "I can't help but feel that we have a better ball club than it has shown on the field. But whether the fault lies with the manager is something we must carefully consider. We haven't come to a definite conclusion yet but that doesn't mean we won't because we will."

Johnson was back at his office in Chicago Monday.

Since trading their lefthanded slugger Harry Simpson to New York June 15, the A's have won only 13 games while losing 34.

Star baseball writer Joe McGuff, who is accompanying the team, wrote from Chicago that the club's playing in recent days was "so inept that they resemble something you might expect to find on a sandlot" and said the players are "going through their duties as if in a daze."

Mehl said the latest rumor is that Boudreau and George Selkirk, director of player personnel for the Athletics, would change places.

Wenskunas' Auto
Deaths Leave 4
Children Orphans

BOODY, Ill. (U.S.) — The auto deaths of Mac Wenskunas, former University of Illinois football star, and his wife Saturday, orphaned the Wenskunas' four children.

The youngsters are expected to attend a Requiem Mass for their parents Tuesday morning in St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Church near their Decatur, Ill., home.

The parents and three other persons were killed in a two-car collision near Boody, Wenskunas, 31, was captain of the 1946 Illinois team which beat UCLA in the Rose Bowl.

While preparations were being made to bury the Wenskunas in Calvary Cemetery, Decatur, a fund collection was begun for the children.

In Champaign, Ill., Ray Elliot, Illinois football coach, agreed to serve as custodian for contributions sent to Huff Gymnasium. He said the fund would be turned over to the guardian named for the children.

Boody is five miles southwest of Decatur.

Mystery Outbreak
Of Pneumonia
In Austin, Minn.

MINNEAPOLIS (U.S.) — State and federal health officials Monday reported a mystery outbreak at Austin, Minn., of 70 cases of pneumonia that has brought two deaths. Physicians say it is unusual in that it falls to respond to penicillin, as most types of pneumonia. An incidence of 38 cases was reported between July 24 and 30 with only six seen.

The Minnesota Health Department said at a press conference that blood and other checks have turned up no fungus, bacteria or virus as a possible cause. The disease is noncontagious and food and water supplies have been absolved as sources.

The disease has struck mainly at men over 40. The attacks start with chills and fever and bring temperatures of from 101 to 105. In some respects, spokesmen said, it resembles Q-fever, an animal borne virus pneumonia and tests along that line are now being made at Austin.

Dr. Herbert Kleinman of the State Health Department said that any relationship between the outbreak and Asiatic flu had been ruled out.

Austin, a city of about 25,000 is near the Iowa border in southeastern Minnesota.

Report Odds Dropping
On Pros, Injury Riddled
All-Stars Take Heart

By JERRY LISKA
CHICAGO (U.S.) — The College All-Stars nursed practice rounds Monday, but were encouraged by reports that favoritism of the New York Giants was slipping for the All-Star football game at Soldier Field Friday night.

The odds reportedly dropped from 13 points, to 11, to 10½, and then to 10 against the All-Stars.

The 24th annual All-Star contest, which will be televised nationally (ABC at 7:30 p.m. CST), finds the collegiate squad seeking its eighth triumph in the series and first since a 30-27 verdict over the Cleveland Browns in 1955. The pro champions hold 14 decisions, and 2 ties were played.

Heavy work is through for the 48-player, All-Star squad, coached by former pro mentor, Curly Lambeau, and the battered collegians certainly need an easy pace. No fewer than nine players have been injured in practice and several of those may see little or no service Friday night.

Lambeau conducted an all-out scrimmage Saturday and such stars were banged up as fullback Don Shinnick of UCLA; Jon Arnett, Southern California halfback; and Paige Cothren, Mississippi fullback.

Before that, center Jerry Tubbs of Oklahoma was sidelined with a sprained ankle and another center, Mike Hudock of Miami (Fla.), was declared out of the game because of a knee injury.

Coach Lambeau has kept mum on his intended starting offensive and defensive units, but it appears likely the starting offensive backfield will include sharp-passing John Brodie of Stanford at quarterback, 220-pound Jim Brown of Syracuse and fleet Abe Woodson of Illinois at halfbacks; and hard-mashing Don Bossler of Miami (Fla.) at fullback.

Observers agree the current collegiate squad has shaped up much better than last year's unit which was blanked by the Cleveland Browns 26-0, a defeat which apparently could have been a lot more one-sided.

The Giants, who won the National Football League championship last December by trouncing the Chicago Bears 47-7, will arrive Thursday from their camp at Burlington, Vt. The pro champs will romp through a light drill at Soldier Field Thursday night.

Willie Mays Gets Four Hits But Dodgers
Defeat Giants, 5-2

BROOKLYN (U.S.) — The Brooklyn Dodgers scored a tie-breaking, fifth-inning run without a hit and went on to defeat New York 5-2 Monday night despite a one-man show by Willie Mays, who had four hits and drove in both Giants runs with his 25th homer.

The Giant centerfielder was a bit of a goat, too, however—with his error giving the Brooks an unearned run and bouncing out to end the game with two men on base.

The third-place Dodgers moved within 2½ games of the National League lead and within two games of second place. It was the only game Monday.

Right-hander Ray Crone gave up his only hit to leadoff man Junior Gilliam in the payoff fifth inning. Junior stole second, went to third as Mays made a great run into left to grab Gim Cimoli's long fly, and then hustled home on Elmer Valo's high infield chopper.

New York Stock Market

By WALTER BUSSEWITZ
NEW YORK (U)—The stock market beat a general retreat Monday after just managing to hold its own for four consecutive days.

Numerous pivotal stocks declined between $1 and $2 a share, and some took bigger losses. Gainers were few and far between.

The market got off to a mixed start, took a gradual dive around mid-day, steadied somewhat, then made another drop in the final hour.

Turnover amounted to 1,790,000 shares, compared with Friday's 1,610,000. It was the twelfth straight day in which volume ran below the two-million share mark.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped $1.40 to $183.30. Based on the average, the decline clipped an estimated 1 1/4 billion dollars from the quoted value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

The industrial component of the average was down $2.60, rails were down $1.40 and utilities were unchanged.

Brokers said the downturn was a technical affair and was a continuation of the three-week reaction the market has been going through. They suggested that the market is heading down toward an area in the averages where a substantial amount of investment buying can be expected.

In the past 16 sessions, the market has closed lower 6 times, mixed 10 times and has failed to make a single advance.

Prices were lower on the American Stock Exchange, with volume of 770,000 shares compared with Friday's 730,000.

GRAINS LOSE EARLY GAINS THROUGH PROFIT TAKING

By WILLARD ROBERTSON
CHICAGO, (U)—Flour mill buying and reports of rainy weather lifted grain futures prices Monday on the Board of Trade but there was a late reaction in most pits due to profit taking.

Only soybeans held their gains, closing more than a cent higher in most cases on buying by processor interests.

New style wheat closed 1 cent higher to 3/4 lower, corn 1/4 off to 1/2 up, oats unchanged to 3/4 lower, rye 1/4 to 3/4 higher, soybeans 1/4 to 1/2 higher, and lard 5 cents a hundred pounds higher to 3 cents lower.

Flour millbuying of wheat futures reflected sales of spring wheat flour to bakers. Authorities said some big chain bakers had bought enough for six months requirements.

Rainfall over the weekend totaled an inch or more in Illinois, a big corn and soybean producer. Both crops are in the critical growing stage, and the rainfall is not needed at this time.

Corn went into the ground quite late due to heavy rains, and there is increasing talk among traders over the possibility of an early frost, which could cause considerable damage.

The Santa Fe railroad said corn and soybeans appear 10 days to 2 weeks behind normal. The Baldwin Elevator Co. of Decatur, in the heart of the Illinois growing belt, said both crops are making good progress, however.

Processors increased their bids for soybeans and receipts were fairly heavy Monday at 245 cars, compared with 104 a week ago. Corn arrivals also were high at 229 cars.

New York Bond Market

NEW YORK, (U)—The corporate bond market improved at the close Monday with industrials and investment quality issues leading the way. Rails and utilities were steady. Trading was quiet.

U. S. government bonds were firm, particularly the long-range issues. Trading was extremely light, however, and dealers said relatively few bonds changed hands.

Corporate trading volume increased to $3,560,000 per value on the Big Board from $3,370,000 last Friday.

Convertibles generally were lower in sympathy with the decline of their stock counterparts.

FHA Lowers Down Payment For FHA Insured Homes

so high "there is a serious question in my mind as to whether the whole intent of the FHA program is being nullified."

"The FHA program was designed to permit families of moderate income to buy homes with small down payments at reasonable financing costs," Rains said. "The financing on these loans is now so heavy on the consumer that I think the Congress must restudy the whole FHA program."

The FHA said the new down payment schedule will be 3 per cent on the first $10,000; 15 per cent on the next $6,000, and 30 per cent on amounts over $16,000. For a home costing $10,000, for example, the minimum down payment will be $300, which is $400 less than under the old schedule. For $12,000 it will be $600 down or $600 less than previously; for $15,000—$1,050 down or $900 less; for $20,000—$2,400 down or $800 less.

The old schedule, put into effect last fall, was 5 per cent down on the first $9,000 and 25 per cent down on amounts over that. The hike in interest rates on FHA guaranteed loans had been expected to coincide with the lower down payments in order to encourage lenders to make more money available for home loans. The housing agency is authorized by Congress to raise the interest rate as high as 6 per cent. Last fall it was hiked from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent.

This will mean home buyers will pay $6 a month, instead of $5.85, for principal and interest on each $1,000 of a 25-year loan. For a 30-year loan the rate will be $5.53 instead of $5.37.

The interest on a 25-year loan will increase from $754 to $800 and for a 30-year loan from $933 to $991.

In addition to the interest, FHA charges a one-half of 1 per cent insurance premium. This was unchanged.

The increase in FHA interest rates does not affect the 4 1/2 per cent rate on home loans guaranteed by the VA. This rate is fixed by Congress, and any increase would have to be approved by both House and Senate. Moves to up it were killed in the House this year.

Johnson Raps Nixon Statement On Amendment and a host of other types of activities.

The jury amendment would also provide for the right of Negro and other affected individuals to serve on federal court juries whether or not they are qualified as jurors under their own state laws.

The rest of the bill would establish a civil rights division in the Justice Department and set up a commission with subpoena powers to make a two-year investigation of civil rights problems.

If Congress finally agrees on a civil rights bill, it will be the first one passed in 80 years. The Senate worked on miscellaneous business Monday, but it planned to meet at 11 a.m. Tuesday for a long session in which it was hoped most of the speeches for and against the civil rights measure would be made. That would leave the road open for voting Wednesday.

Is Bulgarian On Way Out?

replacing Bulganan.

Bulganan has not been a powerful figure in the Kremlin. He has been more of a front man for the Communist party, without any great influence in his own right. Indications of a rift between him and Khrushchev were noted after the June purge of Georgi Malenkov, Lazar Kaganovich and V. M. Molotov, who were ousted from the Kremlin leadership as "anti-party" elements.

Some versions of the struggle inside the ruling party Presidium pictured Bulganan as siding oppositely with Khrushchev's opponents, and then switching in to save his own position, at least temporarily.

The novel, "Gone With the Wind," has been translated into 30 languages, more than "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Youth Hurt, 3 Cars Damaged In Wreck

A collision between two cars at 3:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon one mile north of Winchester resulted in injury of Richard Williams, 17, 1002 College street, Springfield.

The car Williams was driving is said to have rammed into the rear of one car, then struck an oncoming car and trailer.

Williams was taken to Passavant hospital where he was treated for cuts and bruises. He was able to leave the hospital after undergoing emergency treatment.

State police said a ticket was issued to Williams charging excessive speed.

The Springfield youth was south bound on U. S. Routes 36-54, and according to state police, struck the rear of another south-bound car driven by Russell T. Duncan, 58, of Winchester, who was making a left-hand turn.

After the first contact the Springfield car veered into one driven by Carl R. Crabtree, Ashland, Ky., and also hit a house trailer being towed by the Crabtree car.

All three cars and the trailer were extensively damaged.

Ex-Wife Rams Former Husband's Brand New Car

LOS ANGELES (U)—The Robert Smallfield are divorced but ex-wife Wilma doesn't approve of Robert dating other women. She proved it by ramming his brand new car eight times Sunday night.

From a jail cell where she was taken on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon, the tearful Mrs. Smallfield said she did it all for love, wanted only to frighten him. That she did.

Smallfield said that when Mrs. Smallfield spotted him Sunday night, she was in her big 1949 model car.

"She made a U-turn and came at me, and I knew she was out for blood," he told officers. "I took off."

She overtook him in traffic, rammed him from behind, caught up with him again at another intersection and let him have it from an angle.

"Turn around and fight like a man," Smallfield said he heard his wife yell as she rammed him the third time.

By this time Smallfield's 1957 hardtop model was pretty badly banged up, and he raced out of his ex-mate's view. When he thought it was safe to venture back, she roared out of a hiding place and let him have it again. After several more swipes, Smallfield retreated to his place of business.

While he was trying to get to a telephone to call police, he said, Mrs. S. tried to pin him against a wall. Falling in that, she grabbed a 2x4 and took out after him. He jumped in his car and fled.

"I didn't want to kill him," she sobbed Monday. "You can't understand how much I love him."

The Smallfields, married 17 years, were divorced last February. He is under order to pay her $20 monthly. He told police he has been renting a room from his ex-mate for $12 a week but figures he had better move now.

"This isn't the first time she has tried to fix me up," he said. "Since she got the divorce she has tried the same thing at least two other times."

The Smallfields, married 17 years, were divorced last February. He is under order to pay her $20 monthly. He told police he

No Tax Increase In Prospect When More Firemen Are Hired

No tax rate increase will accompany the addition of five or six men to the fire department next Jan. 1 when a 56 hour work week becomes effective, the city council was informed last night by Alderman Mathews of the finance committee, who introduced an ordinance levying taxes for general corporate purposes for 1957, collectable in 1958.

Mathews said Mayor DuBois had expressed a wish that a tax rate increase be avoided, after the Illinois legislature passed a minimum hour law, under which Jacksonville is obligated to hire more firemen.

The finance chairman said the mayor and other councilmen have worked out a plan by which the estimated $18,000 to $21,000 additional cost for firemen's salaries will be absorbed in other departments in the general corporate appropriation ordinance, and by an estimated $3,000 tax receipts.

Mayor DuBois asked Attorney Guy Winks, acting city attorney, to read an ordinance levying taxes for 1957 for general corporate purposes, the appropriation ordinance having been adopted last March. Reading took place after motions by Alderman Mathews and Kelly.

The measure levied $505,693.90 for general purposes, including $75,138.80 for the fire department. The companion appropriation ordinance was published last spring.

At the opening of the council session the invocation was offered by Rev. Joseph Baus, pastor of First Presbyterian church. Mayor DuBois then guided the council through a busy session, with accrued business of the past two weeks being disposed of.

Want Water Service
City Clerk John R. Phillips read a petition signed by a group of property owners on both sides of U. S. Highway 67, north of the city, requesting water service from a main which serves the North Jacksonville elementary school. The petition was referred to the water committee.

The clerk also read a notice to the city of the appointment of Harry G. Story as attorney for Theauna Northrop, 216 South Diamond street, who was injured in a fall May 31, 1937, at the northwest corner of College avenue and Knochuk street.

Alderman Scott reported that work of laying a new roof on the city hall probably will be finished this week.

A resolution shifted $5,000 from the motor vehicle parking meter system revenue fund to the general fund, on motion of Alderman

Beardstown Man Found Fatally Shot Monday

John McCarthy, a 45 year old resident of Beardstown, was found fatally shot near a corn crib a short distance off of U. S. highway 104 a mile and a quarter west of the Illinois River bridge at Mercedia. A shot gun was found near his body.

The body was taken to the Butler funeral home in Pittsfield where the Pike county coroner will conduct an inquest.

$21 In Dimes Taken From Jar At Story Home

Police continued investigation Monday into the burglary of the home of Ira P. Story, 215 East Superior avenue, which occurred some time between 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. Sunday during the family's absence.

The home was completely ransacked and $25 and a woman's white gold wrist watch were stolen.

Mr. Story, who is secretary-treasurer of the National Farm Loan Association, informed police that $21 in dimes was stolen from a jar.

Drawers where several articles of jewelry were kept were ransacked, but none of the jewelry was missing.

Patrolmen Splain and Chapman went to the residence after Story returned at 3 p. m. Sunday and discovered the loss. Other officers worked on the case Monday.

WOULD ASK BUSINESSMEN HELP CURE INFLATION
WASHINGTON, (AP)—Rep. Vursell (R-Ill.) said Monday Congress should appeal to the nation's businessmen to voluntarily help hold back inflation.

A resolution introduced by Vursell would urge businessmen "to cooperate in a voluntary and patriotic effort to stabilize wages and prices and to stop inflation and the constant rise in the cost of living."

The appeal would be addressed to the National Assn. of Manufacturers, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and all state chambers of commerce.

Rev. E. L. Banta Injured When Tire Blows Out

The condition of Rev. E. L. Banta, 1009 West State street, victim of an automobile accident Sunday afternoon near Springfield, was reported Monday as not serious, with indication that he may be able to leave Springfield Memorial hospital soon.

Rev. Banta, widely known radio evangelist, was injured when the left front tire of his car blew out, causing him to lose control and his Packard car turned over, landing in a ditch. The car was entirely demolished.

Rev. Banta, whose "Hour of Grace" program has been heard on WLDS many years, sustained an injury to his left hand. He underwent X-ray examination Sunday, and probably will leave the hospital early this week if the X-rays show no fractures.

He was returning from Springfield about 2 p. m. Sunday, after preaching at the South Grand Avenue Baptist church.

The accident occurred near "Happy Landing" farm, a short distance west of Springfield on U. S. Routes 36-54.

Local Man Held For Springfield Burglary
Sangamon county authorities arrested a Jacksonville man Monday who had with him at the time of his arrest stolen property valued at approximately $2,600.

Richard Joseph Sewert, 2223 East State street, is being held pending an investigation of a burglary at the home of Harold Cox, 2108 South Pasfield street, Springfield.

Police said the Cox home was broken into and entered by Sewert, who took a small, dark grey lock-box.

Leaving the Cox home, he hitched a ride out of Springfield from two boys in a truck who took him to Bates, Ill. Once in Bates, he borrowed a screwdriver, removed the box from the beer case in which he was carrying it, and tried to open it.

After failing in his attempt, he took the screwdriver back to its owner and returned to the highway. Here he found a concrete road marker and began beating the box against it, trying unsuccessfully to break the seal.

His third attempt was partially successful. He did succeed in opening a hole in the top of the box by beating it with a brick and a large spike from a nearby railroad, but he was sighted by two Bates residents while doing so.

The two Bates men thought that Sewert might have taken the box from the Bates elevator. They followed him to a bank in New Berlin, where he cashed the box for old coins found in the box for currency. He was apprehended by the two men as he left the bank and taken to the Sangamon county deputies.

Among the contents of the small box were twenty-three shares of stock from three different companies, four life insurance policies, a five hundred dollar certificate and a share book from the MacGobin Association, a five hundred dollar share of the Sunset Lake Association, several government bonds, nineteen dollars in cash, a woman's tan leather billfold and the box of old coins.

Police said that Sewert claims to have spent some time in the state penitentiary at Menard, Ill., of having been released last February.

A Solution For Algeria

This fall the issue of nationalist strife in Algeria will come again before the United Nations. Both sides to the dispute must surely feel the mounting world pressures call for a solution.

Inasmuch as the U.N. already has officially called upon France to find a just and peaceful answer, the French will be seriously embarrassed before the world if they cannot show they have made some effort.

Similarly, the Algerian nationalists can hardly expect great sympathy for their cause if they have held rigidly to an extreme position.

The problem in Algeria is not a relatively simple black-and-white case of nationalist independence vs. no independence. In many colonized areas of the world, a virtual handful of a few thousands or tens of thousands of Europeans were in control of millions of natives. Freedom for the latter meant either ousting from the country or removing from political power the ruling Europeans.

Algeria is different. It has 1,200,000 Europeans against 8,500,000 Moslem Africans. The Europeans dominate Algiers and some other African cities. They regard the country not as a colonial outpost but as their home.

Most of these people are of course French, and Algeria, far more than most overseas holdings, has been woven into the national fabric. Indeed, it is officially a part of France.

The Europeans in Algeria hate and distrust the Moslems and have no wish to be ruled by them. But, obviously, they are too numerous to pack up and get out—in the manner of dispossessed colonial rulers—should the nationalist forces triumph.

Some 32 months of guerrilla warfare and nationalist terrorism have only widened the broad gulf between Europeans and Moslems. Many of the former talk as if extermination of most of the Moslem population is the only practical answer.

As in so many situations where emotions run high, the extremists on both sides seem to control. They make compromise difficult.

Yet compromise clearly is the answer dictated in this complex land. Even if nationalist independence should finally be gained—as many believe it must—some arrangement would appear essential which would bar either the Moslems or the Europeans from dominating each other.

The Algerian fighting is terribly costly in both lives and treasure. The world, speaking through the U.N., wants it to stop.

Before they destroy each other in their consuming hatreds, the combatants should heed that call.

In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS
LAGUNA BEACH, Calif. (U)—The citizens of this jewel-like seaside town have shown the world what a community can do for art—and itself.

For 30 nights, tourists and townspeople sit under a starlit sky, silent except for an occasional high-flying jet heading out to sea, to watch living masterpieces. The curtains of the stage at Irvine Bowl part and you see three great paintings of the Huntington Library—Blue Boy, Tragic Muse and Pinkie.

Only the slightest wavering of one of the characters in the frames proves to you that the paintings live.

Later you see Actaeon and Diana, two nude dancers in graceful poses, the Manassas Mauler standing over his victim in Dempsey-Pirpo by Bellows... Discobolus, the symbol for the Olympic games... a ballet scene by Degas and a magazine cover by Norman Rockwell.

Above the stage is a great bas-relief of 20 great men portrayed on the Albert Memorial in London. Silhouetted against the sky, Marines from a nearby base reenact Joe Rosenthal's classic photo of the flag-raising on Iwo Jima. The finale is a re-creation of Da Vinci's The Last Supper.

With a musical score and a sprightly narration, the show makes great entertainment. It's all due to the cooperative enterprise of the community.

For 30 nights, salesgirls, bankers, artists, lawyers, housewives, school kid and life-guard donate their services to add to the glory of Laguna Beach. Over a million people have seen the pageant of the masters since its start in 1934.

With its rocky coasts and rugged hills, Laguna Beach was a natural magnet for artists. They started coming in the early part of the century. In 1928, the first gallery of the Laguna Beach Art Association was opened.

The festival of arts began 25 years ago with a summer showing of local art. In 1934, the first pageant of the masters was given, featuring living pictures.

Now the whole town pitches in for the annual event. Preparation begins almost with the close of the current season in August.

WEAK-LEGGED

OLDEST
The imperial dynasty of Japan, which traditionally dates from 660 B.C., but for which date there is no historical proof, is the oldest reigning family in the world.

Martin Van Buren was the first of the presidents of the United States to be American-born under the American flag, but earlier presidents were all American-born.

President's Routine Calls For a 40-Hour Work Week

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—President Eisenhower has established a comfortable pattern of work and relaxation this summer which will probably be his routine for the remainder of his term.

This presidential way of life consists of an eight-hour workday, five days a week, relaxed weekends at the Gettysburg farm and fairly frequent two-week vacations at various spots around the country.

There are some grumblings that this doesn't give the President time to get very deeply into the major issues on which he must make decisions and that it forces him to short circuit his purely political responsibilities.

But his doctors and the White House staff are satisfied with the President's production. And apparently Ike is, too.

He rises at 7 a.m. He's in the office before 8.

THERE ARE FOUR regular one-to-three-hour morning sessions per week which he attends.

On Tuesday he meets with the Republican legislative leaders. Wednesday morning is usually his press conference time. Thursday it's the National Security Council, the government's top policy body.

And Friday it's a Cabinet meeting. At 12:30 he takes a two-hour break. This will include a light lunch and variations of a swim in the White House pool, a nap or a session of painting. Very rarely does he use this noon recess for official business.

The afternoons are generally reserved for visitors. In a whole workday the President will probably see six to 10 visitors.

He has set a goal of at least one round of golf during the week. Normally he leaves his office around 5. But when he gets the itch to hit the links the appointments will be speeded up and he will leave for the Burning Tree Club between 3 and 4.

Doctors have advised him to take some kind of a break in the late afternoon. So when he doesn't go to the course, he'll frequently duck to the back yard of the White House and practice putting and chipping for a half hour.

RIGHT AFTER THE election when the Middle East crisis arose he got into the habit of doing some business telephoning after dinner. He still does. In the evening he'll talk to members of Congress who have some special business with him. Or he will accept long-distance calls concerning various matters of business.

He considers it late when he gets to bed at 10. And that's his workday.

Manners Make Friends

Gettysburg weekends always include golf and bridge. He'll go fishing, just visit with friends, read and mosey around the farm. The grandchildren will be at Gettysburg frequently for the week-ends.

Flexibility is a key element of the presidential schedule. Most visitors are warned that appointments might be canceled at last minute. The White House staff is alerted to respond quickly to Ike's sudden urges to make a short trip to see a friend or play a round of golf on a new course.

IKK'S PERSONAL physician, Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, is really the presidential shadow. He gives the President a visual check morning, noon and night. Twice a week he makes a complete check of the President.

Any time the President shows signs of extra fatigue or any other visible symptoms of something not normal, Snyder will make an instant, complete check. He maintains a rigid supervision of the President's diet.

After Ike's recent stomach-ache there were rumors that the illness was really a recurrence of his leitis. Snyder denied this and Ike's continued good health since then supports him.

Fear that a second term might kill the President has been allayed now that he has developed this 40-hour work week in the White House.

Thinking It Over—
By Robert L. Diefenbacher, D.D. (Written for NEA Service)

In the vacation areas of our land we are struck with the aimless movement of the multitudes. They walk to and fro and past the same spots a dozen times without seeming to have been anywhere.

Sometimes we wonder what these wanderers are getting out of their seemingly pointless meandering. Probably they are renewing their awareness of a broader commonplace. They are replacing boredom with new interests in life. They are seeing people in new surroundings.

We need not travel away from home to restore our interests in people. We can wander through the streets of the spirit. We can observe new relationships of God and man. We can find fresh friendships with others.

Wherever we are God makes the shifting scenes and gives beauty to our lives and the lives of others.

At home: Sprinkle beef strips evenly on both sides with non-seasoned meat tenderizer; pierce with sharp fork; combine marinade ingredients; pour over meat; refrigerate overnight.

At the beach: Drain meat, reserving marinade for basting; string on skewers and broil on hibachi grill, about three inches from fire. Teriyaki should be rare and with meat tenderizer it cooks very quickly; allow a total of four to five minutes; turn and baste frequently.

Alcoholic Unable to Face Life's Realities

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

There is perhaps little doubt that the world would be better off if alcohol as a beverage had never been discovered. But it has been, and millions of people all over the world have become so attached to alcoholic drinks that they are unable to stop.

Such people are labeled chronic alcoholics. It is this particular aspect of the drinking of alcoholic liquors which I want to discuss now.

Often the dividing line between the "social drinker" and the chronic alcoholic is not clear-cut. The heavy social drinker passes by imperceptible degrees into a state where he or she can no longer "take it" or "leave it alone," as they usually claim, but must continue to "take it."

THE VICTIM of the alcohol habit usually thinks he can stop at the proper time or feels sure that a small glass of wine or beer would not do any harm. When he gets it, however, he keeps on taking just one more drink until perhaps he ends in the police station, the gutter or the morgue.

No one knows exactly why some people develop this craving for alcohol and the inability to stop. Alcoholism is not inherited, but some claim there is a family tendency to it.

As one man said, "Alcohol is an extremely effective agent for roiling blurring and softening the rigid and forbidding outlines of reality."

AS TIME goes on the person headed for chronic alcoholism seeks to shut out his troubles more and more often in drink. It is an escape. It is also a defect of personality and reflects an unwillingness or inability to face up to the troubles of the world.

Many students of the subject consider chronic alcoholics as sick people and the alcoholism as a symptom of the condition which caused the person to take to drink. Just as a fever is a symptom of pneumonia.

UNFORTUNATELY, there is as yet no thoroughly satisfactory treatment for the chronic alcoholic.

Under careful supervision some have been "cured" by a method which leads them to develop an aversion or distaste for any drink containing alcohol.

Hypnotism has also been tried with some success. Electric shock treatments are under study. An organization of ex-alcoholics called "Alcoholics Anonymous" has often succeeded when other methods failed.

Matter of FACT

Henry Ford's first experience as a mechanic came when he was 13 years old. He removed all of the works of a watch, then set them in place again. His curiosity concerning the mechanics of watches led him to repair, without charge, many clocks and watches in the neighborhood of his home.

FIREFLY'S "FLAME"
An enzyme within the firefly's luminous cells enables oxygen and a substance called luciferin to unite, producing a cold light that throws off neither heat nor energy. The twinkling glow is a signal between the sexes.

Fine clam chowder can be made at home in practically any part of the country now because canned and frozen clams of high quality are generally available.

The Mature Parent

Visit to Busy Married Child Isn't Exactly a Vacation

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

The Boyds' married daughter Lida lives three states away. Last summer Mrs. Boyd got Mr. Boyd to make their vacation a visit to Lida. He wanted a leisurely auto trip through good fishing country but Mrs. Boyd said they'd break Lida's heart if they didn't come to see how the children had grown.

And indeed Lida and her family were very glad to see them. But on the fourth day, something happened. Mrs. Boyd had just begun to scrape carrots for dinner when Lida returned from shopping. Entering the kitchen, she said sharply, "Why are you scraping those carrots, Mother? The skins are full of vitamins. I never scrape my carrots!"

Then, averting her face, she put down her packages, adding, "Why don't you go out and sit on the porch with Dad? You didn't come here to work, you know."

"But you have so much to do, dear!" protested Mrs. Boyd. "How can I just sit when I see how overworked you are?"

There was a little pause. Then Lida said too pleasantly, "The scraper goes in the other drawer, Mother. And I am not overworked. I know you want to help—but please, Mother, go out and relax on the porch with Dad."

But on the porch Dad was anything but relaxed. The moment his wife sank down in the chair beside him, he growled, "How the Sam Hill long is this going on? I can't look at television all day as well as all night. When I think of those trout flies in the car..."

Near tears, Mrs. Boyd murmured, "Oh, Jim, aren't you glad to see the children?"

"I've seen them," retorted her husband.

At the week's end, the Boyds told Lida and her husband that they had decided to take the fishing tour after all.

And a very sensible, self-protective decision it was.

A vacation is relaxation of tensions. Spending one with a busy married child can increase our tensions instead of reducing them. Lida feels obliged to reject our help—and the habit of years obliges us to feel we must give it. This conflict is as natural as it is hard to resolve.

Our vacation is our time, not for struggling with conflicts, but for replenishing our sense of peace.

American Menu
Try Something Different:
An Oriental Barbecue

By GAYNOR MADDOX.
For the beach cookout—or any cookout—why not try an Oriental type of barbecuing. You need one of those portable and very practical Japanese hibachis, those Japanese stoves.

For the Oriental meat recipe, use beef of round, bottom round, or chuck. Although these economy cuts are usually braised or potied, you can barbecue them successfully by using a meat tenderizer.

Beef Teriyaki (Serves 6)
Two pounds beef of round, bottom round or chuck cut in thin strips, 4-inch thick, 1 teaspoon non-seasoned meat tenderizer.

For marinade: One-quarter cup soy sauce, 1 cup water, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 cloves garlic, minced, 2 teaspoons ground ginger.

Mary And Martha Circle Of Chapin Honors Children

The regular meeting of the Mary and Martha Circle of the Chapin Lutheran church was held recently with children as guests.

The meeting opened with a song, "The Church's One Foundation" followed by the topics of the day, "Mite Box Projects," with slides which Pastor Matzke explained. Roll call was answered by thirteen members with a Bible passage in which the word "children" appeared.

Routine business was conducted with a report of the Retreat at Camp Cilca by Mrs. Matzke and one by the program committee. The meeting closed with the singing of "I Love to Tell the Story" and the Lord's prayer.

Entertainment followed by both the members and children. Participating in the program were Louise Schroeder, Lorna Fricke, Meta Eilers, Elda Staake, Doris Ruppel and Ada Schumaker.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses Mayme Detmer, Esther Nienhiser, Norma Detmer and Olga Werries.

The following children attended: Paula Thomas, Dennis and Sandra Boehs, Linda and Trudy Brockhouse, Judy and Kathy Detmer, Donald, Marilyn, Dean, Harlan and Allen Fricke, Michael, Danny and Joyce Matzke, Mary Middendorf, Edward, Barbara, Marilyn, Byron and Darlene Schroeder, Karmy Schone, David and Arthur Schumaker, Marsha Staake, Naydene Tappenbeck and Ruth Werries.

Pleasant Plains Youth Confesses Shooting Man

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A 17-year-old Pleasant Plains youth, already on probation, was picked up for questioning by Sangamon County Chief Investigator Paul Terril Friday and confessed he shot a man in Pleasant Plains July 24.

The deputy said Lawrence Connors, on probation for burglary, admitted he shot and wounded Frank Elmore as Elmore walked away from the Connors home after an argument.

Elmore was treated for a minor wound to the back at Memorial hospital.

Terril said the youth told him he, Elmore and two others had been drinking and as Connors left Elmore gave him a bottle of whisky. A short time later Elmore came to the Connors home wanting the bottle. An argument followed and Connors grabbed his rifle and shot once into the floor. Elmore turned to leave saying he would get his own gun.

As Elmore left, Connors fired at him several times and hit him once, Terril said. Six bullet holes were found in the Connors house, Terril said. Elmore is the husband of Connors mother, Terril reported. The couple is separated.

Connors is being held in the Sangamon county jail. The state's attorney's office has started action to revoke his probation.
